

Few Complain Says Bremen Collector

In spite of reports of high assessments and general dissatisfaction, very few people are complaining when they pay their tax bills, according to William H. Fleischhauer, Bremen Township tax collector. And those who complain, he says, are mostly those who own improved property, but who heretofore have been paying on vacant.

To date about one third of the property owners in the township have paid their taxes. Of the 22,800 parcels of land in the township, the taxes of only about 4,000 are paid the local collector. Since so many are paid downtown, he cannot afford to send out individual tax bills. However, if property owners wait until tax bills come from the county treasurer, they may find the penalty already in effect.

Hence the collector is keeping his office at 162nd st. and Forest ave., Oak Forest open from 8 p. m. until late in the evening. He will receive tax money until the end of the month.

Only about 30 Midlothianites paid their tax to the local collector on the 1927 levy, and very few have paid him so far this year. This is due to the practice of subdividers of paying the taxes downtown.

Mr. Fleischhauer points out that taxes paid directly to him are deposited in the Tinley Park bank and the township derives the benefit more quickly than if sent downtown and returned at a later date.

Rob Balchowsky Store Of Goods

Robbers again made a call on Frankfort, when Sunday night the Harry Balchowsky store was broken into and about $100 worth of goods were taken including shoes, shirts and groceries. No money was taken as the safe was not touched.

Entry into the store was made by cutting a hole in the rear of the building.

The same evening about 45 chickens were stolen from Conrad Octer.

TINLEY PARK GARDEN CLUB

By Mrs. R. J. Hug
Through the courtesy and big heartedness of John Boeyer, members of the Tinley Park Garden Club enjoyed a delightful trip to Hills Nursery at Dundee, Illinois, May 14.

Mr. Boeyer thru his connections with the International Harvester Co. secured the services of an International bus and driver and at 9:05 a. m., the bus left Tinley Park with 21 Garden Club members.

On the way Mr. Boeyer presented each lady with a handy little "Memo" book, also the courtesy of the Harvester Co.

It was 11:30 a. m. when we arrived at Dundee and soon were at the nursery. The Garden Club members marveled at the beauty of the various specimens of the Evergreen trees.

We saw a beautiful rock garden and a pond with gold fish and all around this was a wall of beautiful lilacs.

An attendant escorted the bus all around the highway surrounding the Hills Nursery which covers 600 acres of ever greens from tiny seedlings to great high beautiful evergreen trees.

After leaving the Nursery the same attendant escorted us to the Haeger's Pottery Co., at Dundee.

Our visit here was very educational because Mr. Boeyer had a young man employed by the firm give a short lecture to us at each step of the making of this pottery.

Mr. Boeyer had a hard time getting the ladies back to the bus and if you visit some of the Tinley homes you will find various kinds of this pottery.

On the return trip we traveled back via the way of the Fox River Valley. Mr. Boeyer suggested we stop at St. Charles and here we visited the very beautiful Baker Hotel.

The Tinley Park Garden Club deeply appreciated the many kindnesses Mr. Boeyer has shown them.

The regular monthly meeting of the Garden Club was held on Friday, May 16 at the country home of the Mrs. Andersons and Mrs. Bjork.

Mrs. R. J. Hug, the president, opened the meeting by extending greetings to the newly elected vice-president and secretary. The roll call was next in order to which 19 members responded.

The regular business was dispensed with. Mrs. John Werth newly appointed Flower Show Chairman, accepted very graciously and Aug. 20, 21 are the dates for the coming Flower Show for the Tinley Park Garden Club. During the afternoon Mrs. Lulu Rogers read an interesting lecture on "Window Boxes" published by the Virginia Carolina Chemical Corp. Mrs. Wm. Funk read an article on the "Columbine".

Mrs. Clarence Goessel read Mrs. Edith Fisher's "Au Revoir but not Goodbye." This lovely article touched all members because Mrs. Fisher has won a place in the hearts of all who know her.

Commander's Night Sponsored By Tinley Post

The American Legion, in common with other organizations, looks to its leaders for inspiration to carry out its ideals. To honor its commanders and to inspire its members, Tinley Park Post on Monday, May 19 celebrated its annual "Commanders Night" by holding the most enthusiastic and largest attended meeting in its history. The Post Commander, Frank Hoar has achieved remarkable results and has made himself and his Post widely and favorably known in Legion circles. Fourth District Commander Wm. M. O'Connell of Homewood is the highly efficient Commander of the largest district in Cook County. In his accustomed and forceful manner he addressed the Tinley Park Post Legionnaires paying graceful compliments to the Post for the loyal manner in which it has supported his administration of district affairs.

A most welcome surprise was the appearance of Past District Commander Al Boyle and four other members of Stanley F. Sullivan Post. The Tinley Park Post was chartered during Commander Boyle's administration and he naturally feels a fatherly interest in the boys here. Comrade Boyle is also State Chairman of the Poppy Day Drive. In his address to the Post, he in particular stressed the necessity for a Poppy Day to secure funds for the all important service work of the Legion.

The particularly honored guest of the evening was Cook County Commander Joseph F. Novotny received an enthusiastic ovation. Mr. Novotny is one of the high dignitaries of Legiondom being the commander of nearly 30,000 Legionnaires in Cook County and the president of that most unique organization, the Cook County Council. This Council is composed of the Commanders and Adjutants of all Posts in Cook County, delegates in proportion to membership of the posts and elective State officers residing in the county. Thru some 50 committees and in monthly meetings, this council coordinates the work of the 170 posts in the county. In an eloquent address, Commander Novotny told in detail of the council's work. He commended Vice-Commander Rowden, local delegate to the council for his fine spirit it shown in his record of never missing a meeting of the council. Paul H. Rauhoff, Judge Advocate of the Post is alternate delegate to the council and is also 4th District member of the Speakers Committee of the Council. Mr. H. C. Vogt, a leading business man and Past President of the Lions Club was the local guest of honor. Mr. Vogt, in addressing the Post, voiced his opinion that the Legion has become a force for great good in the community and offered his co-operation in anything the Post undertakes.

After the meeting, a delicious lunch was served by Comrades Hoar, Irwin and Hermsmeyer. The new table cloth was used for the first time. As a compliment to Comrade Barry who promoted the purchase, the cloth is green in color.

Of special interest to the officers of the Post was the fact that 32 out of a membership of 41 were present. Comrade Johnny Barton, the popular salesman for the Elmore Company, came all the way from the north side of Chicago to attend the meeting. He had the pleasure of conveying Commander Novotny back to Chicago after the meeting. There is an unconfirmed rumor that John tried to sell a chicken farm to the County Commander during the trip home.

An account of the meeting would be incomplete without mention of the uniformed color guard, composed of comrades Henke, Rauch, Nylander and Ceithamel. They presented the colors during the opening ceremonies in a very efficient manner and made a hit with all present.

Salvation Army To Hold Home Service Drive

Capt. Harry Strissel, officer in charge of the Joliet district for the Salvation Army was in Mokena Wednesday and arranged for a campaign to be put on Monday, May 28. At that time a general solicitation of business places and homes will be made. Advance gifts of money or clothes may be made to Ona E. McGovney, Mokena State Bank or Sippel's Store.

Mr. McGovney will be chairman of the campaign as in former years. Make Mokena go over big in supporting this organization which is everybody's charity.

Tables were set with lovely purple chris centerpieces and delicious fruit salad, coffee cake, cookies and coffee was served by these "three hostesses".

This was a very lovely meeting as members enjoyed the rock garden and other plants surrounding the Anderson home.

The Club regrets the resignation of Mrs. Trudie Noehring Swisher as Press Chairman as Mrs. Swisher has been a very faithful worker.

The next regular meeting will be at Mrs. W. B. Combs' estate Friday, June 13th.

STRAW VOTES AGAINST SEWER

In last weeks issue a straw vote was asked for by this paper on the proposition whether the proposed sewer system for Mokena should be built or not and so far 12 negative votes have been received with none in the affirmative. It is said that if the Local Board of Improvements lets the sewer matter come to a court hearing a number of property owners will ask for an injunction against the sewer system so that it will delay its construction rather indefinitely. Send in your straw vote whether you are in favor or against the sewer system.

☐ I am for the sewer system as proposed for Mokena.
☐ I am against the sewer system proposed for Mokena.

Members of the Clubs and many other people with gardens have given generously in previous years and will be glad to learn that additional stations for receiving flowers will be opened this year for the first time at the I. Ev. Woman's Convention A Big Success

By Selma E. Krapp,
Cor. Sec. of Monee Circuit
The Fifth Annual Convention of the Evangelical Women's Federation of the Monee Circuit of the Evangelical Synod of North America was held May 20th at the St. John's Evangelical church in Mokena. Rev. G. G. Gratzel, pastor and Mrs. Emil Krapp, president of the Ladies Aid.

Over 300 members, ministers and visitors attended this convention. Mrs. E. H. Eilers, Peotone, president of the Monee Circuit, presided at both sessions. Rev. Bratzel had charge of the devotions in the morning and also extended a hearty welcome to all to which Mrs. Eilers responded.

The song services were led by Mrs. Mernitz, Chicago Heights who also gave a very educational talk on Christian Citizenship. Business meeting then in order. After the closing prayer led by Rev. E. H. Eilers, Peotone, all guests assembled in dining room and partook of the lunch they brought and Mokena Ladies Aid members served coffee. This method of cooking coffee only, gives all members a chance to attend all meetings.

Rev. Wilkins of Grant Park read the Scripture and led in prayer in the afternoon service. Mrs. Dralle of Frankfort gave an interesting talk, selecting as her subject "The Home, Church, Community, Synod, and the World at Large". Rev. T. Lehmann, President of the Elmhurst College gave an inspiring address on "Home Life and Its Influence on the Children". Both meetings were enhanced by solos rendered by Mrs. Karl Hirsch.

A Stewardship play, "Up to the Home", was presented by Mrs. E. Warning, Mrs. A. Braun, Mrs. H. Spiess, Mrs. K. Krapp, Mrs. K. Hirsch, Mrs. H. Marti, Mrs. A. Steen, Mrs. R. Hensel, Mrs. A. Beagley and Mrs. L. Steinhagen.

The church auditorium, the dining room were beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns. An invitation was cordially extended to the Federation to meet in Grant Park for the next convention which was gladly accepted. After the closing prayer the assembly sang "Oh Master, Let Me Walk With Thee", bringing to a close another blessed and inspiring convention.

Tinley Children Visit New Adler Planetarium

In custody of Mrs. Luane Buys, teacher, and Mrs. Ingeborg Haney, Mrs. Florence Rowden, Mrs. Hamrick, Mrs. George Lorenz, Mrs. Hilding Anderson, the 3rd and 4th grade pupils of the Tinley Park school spent Saturday, May 17th in Chicago visiting the Field Museum, the Shedd Aquarium and the Adler Planetarium.

Joy was registered in the group of twenty-six youngsters when Mr. Boeyer added a treat with a motor bus ride from the La Salle Station around Soldiers Field and the lake front terminating at the Field Museum.

In company with a guide, the children and escorts were enabled to glean many points of interest which might otherwise have been overlooked in the hour spent at the Museum.

After enjoying a box lunch, the party continued to the Aquarium, the center attraction being a lovely rock garden and pool containing enormous turtles and fish.

A brisk sprint brought the party to the Planetarium. Attending the lecture at 2 p. m., crowded to capacity with 600 visitors, the party marvelled at the mechanism of the huge telescope, stored away a multitude of facts and gained a much wider knowledge of astronomy and "our heavenly home."

Hospitality was extended on every hand and many compliments were expressed on the orderly and well-mannered group of children.

It is hoped many more educational and happy times may be arranged for the children and we are grateful to Mrs. Buys and Mr. Boeyer for their kindly interest.

The following children made the trip.

Not In With Dry Agents Says Cannon

James Cannon of Orland Park who it is said gangsters had threatened to "take for a ride" when they suspected him of having been in with the prohibition agents following a raid on two Blue Island saloons, has returned home and says that he has no connection with the prohibition agents, is not in with them in any way and is the victim of circumstances. Mr. Cannon's story of the affair is as follows:

In company with several friends he visited the two places in Blue Island which were later raided. He was quite surprised to hear of the raid a day or so afterward, and insists that no information as far as he is concerned was given to prohibition agents after his visit to the Blue Island places.

He says the reason why he was out of town a couple of days was to avoid being served with a summons as he did not want to appear against either of the parties. He was afraid they would summon him as a witness after he had been led into the mess he says he was. But he says "the boys" can rest assured that he will never do them any harm providing they don't do him any.

TINLEY PARK P. T. A. NOTES

By FLORENCE FIRCHAU
Publicity Chairman

The first meeting of the new Tinley Park P. T. A. Executive Committee was held Wednesday evening May 14 at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. F. Rowden, President. The following members were present:

President, Frances Rowden
Vice-President, Florence Anderson.

Secretary, Alice Anderson.
Treasurer, Inna Wallin.

Membership Chairman, Ingeborg Haney; reception chairman, Lulu Rogers; program chairman, Trudie Swisher; refreshments chairman, Myrtle Mohr; librarian, Amelia Brennan; custodian, Marie Gotham; publicity chairman, Florence Firchau, Frances Ceithamel, chairman of the school beautiful being absent.

Our President first covered each office by explaining to us the various matters coming under our jurisdiction, and that officers could appoint members to assist them.

Everyone seemed to be at top-notch-many good suggestions being made regarding matters to be carried out during the ensuing year. It was agreed upon to have a stand made for our school banner. Mrs. Haney very appropriately read a clipping covering "charm". She seems to be on the right track as it will be up to her to charm both old and young and new members. A suggestion was made to have a 25c bazaar sometime in September or October. Our President thought it would be a very good idea to give a party in October after our regular P. T. A. meeting, serving the children with ice cream and wafers instead of having the usual picnic thus enabling more children to reap the benefits. Mothers were to be invited and entertained; a prize to be awarded room having most mothers present.

We received an itemized statement from our Primary Teacher, Miss Morningstar, covering such instruments as she deemed necessary for a Toy Orchestra. All members seemed to be very much in favor of aiding this progressive, musical novel ty. It was agreed upon to have an ice cream social sometime in June on the school grounds to raise funds to cover. Mrs. Swisher was appointed director of a "surprise band" to be featured at 8 o'clock. Mrs. E. Mohr to take care of refreshments and Amelia Brennan, chairman of arrangements.

Mrs. Swisher asked the opinion of the other members regarding the number of speakers desired. It was agreed upon to have them in Sept., Nov., and March, the intervening months to be left open for special features. Fathers night will be held on Friday, Sept. 26th at 8 o'clock. Now don't forget to remember that in June comes a treat—And I'm sure every member Will serve cake and cream you can't beat.

65 Per Cent Wolf Rd. Right Of Way Signed

A decidedly concerted campaign has been on at Mokena since last Saturday morning to secure the needed right of way on Wolf road thru Mokena and up to the time of going to press over 65 per cent of the needed right of way dedication papers have been signed. Inside the village limits wherever sidewalks have to be moved, the county right of way committee allows the owners 20 cents per square foot for new sidewalks and settlements have been made with practically all the village property owners on this basis.

Four property owners on the north side are facing condemnation suits against their properties as they are refusing to make a settlement with the county committee and are holding up the letting of contracts for the paving of Wolf road and the building of bridges on the north end of the road. It is understood that they will be given one more chance to accept the county right of way committees offer and sign the required dedication papers and refusing to do so, condemnation suits will be started against them at once and they stand a chance of getting less than what they are offered now.

The work of cleaning up the right of way is expected to be finished in another week, following which bids will be advertised for by the county bond issue committee and contracts let. It is planned to finish Wolf Road thru Mokena by Fall.

Republican Club Hold Meeting

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Bremen Township Republican Club was held at Woerheide hall in Midlothian Monday evening, the new officers presiding.

A plan was discussed whereby a prominent speaker on civic, township or any political subject would be brought before the Club's regular meetings giving talks that would be instructive to the members present.

The first speaker will be Fred Goebel of Tinley Park who will talk on the school districts of Bremen township. Mr. Goebel is treasurer of the school board.

Discussion was raised on the subject of the annual picnic and Edward Reimer, Bremen township clerk was chosen chairman.

BUSINESS PLACES CLOSE ON MEMORIAL DAY

All business places, banks and post offices will remain closed next Friday in observance of Memorial Day.

ty. It was agreed upon to have an ice cream social sometime in June on the school grounds to raise funds to cover. Mrs. Swisher was appointed director of a "surprise band" to be featured at 8 o'clock. Mrs. E. Mohr to take care of refreshments and Amelia Brennan, chairman of arrangements.

Uncle Sam's "Health and Citizenship Clinics"

Candidates Arriving in Camp

Ready for Duty

Outdoor Church Services

Setting-Up Exercises

C.M.T.C. Life-Saving Instruction

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

More Uncle Sam has issued an invitation to his sons to attend one of the great "health and citizenship clinics" which he has established in various parts of the country. Now, if that word "clinic" has a somewhat forbidding sound to those who should be most interested in this announcement, let it be put this way:

Uncle Sam is going to play "Summertime Santa Claus" to Young America again and is inviting young Americans to enjoy a month of camp life in the great outdoors as his special guests. He will pay all the necessary expenses. Wholesome food, uniforms, army cots and blankets, athletic equipment, laundry service and medical attention—everything that is normally used in camp life—will be furnished free. Before he leaves home the boy will be given a railroad ticket to the camp and his meals en route will be paid for. The same will be done when he returns from the camp to his home.

All of which is by way of saying that for the tenth year these popular free "man-building" centers, known as the citizens' military training camps, are being thrown open to the young manhood of these United States. During June, July and August some 40,000 young Americans between the ages of seventeen and twenty-four years will have there without cost a month of athletic, military, citizenship and leadership training under selected army officers and specialists from civil life who are commissioned in the army reserve. Although they are called "military training camps," the making of soldiers is by no means the purpose nor even the chief aim of the training. No obligation for future military service of any kind is incurred by those who go to camps. The only requirement is that they agree to stay the full 30 days of camp and obey the simple rules of good conduct which prevail there.

While military training is a part of the routine of the camps, their main purpose, as Uncle Sam sees it, is "to develop the manhood of the nation by bringing together young men of high and different types from all sections of the country on a common basis of equality and under the most favorable conditions of outdoor life; to teach them the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship; to stimulate the interest of the youth of this country in the importance of military training as a benefit to the nation and the individual taking such training; to inculcate self-discipline and obedience and to develop these youngsters, physically, mentally and morally." For that reason former President Coolidge once called the C. M. T. C. "schools in citizenship," and with their emphasis upon making these young men better fitted, both physically and mentally, for their duties as citizens, the aptness of the "health and citizenship clinics" characterization is apparent.

The C. M. T. C. idea goes back to 1913 when the first college training camps for officers were organized by Gen. Leonard Wood. Associated with their history, too, is the name of that exponent of vigorous outdoor life and robust Americanism, Theodore Roosevelt. Although Leonard Wood will always be remembered as the "father of the C. M. T. C.," it was the powerful influence of the ex-President which aided in the inauguration of the now-famous Plattsburg training camp in 1915. The value of the training given in this camp was strikingly demonstrated when the United States was drawn into the World war, and hundreds of trained officers, the product of the Plattsburg camp, were immediately available for the services which were so badly needed.

As the result of the lessons learned during the World war, the citizens' training camps as they now exist were brought into being. In 1920 the

President Hoover Commends the C. M. T. C. to Fathers and Mothers

THE WHITE HOUSE

Washington, April 19, 1930.

Mr. George F. James,
National Executive Secretary,
Military Training Camps Ass'n,
6 North Michigan Avenue,
Chicago, Ill.

My Dear Mr. James:

The Citizens' Military Training camps have fulfilled, through ten years, the purpose for which they were established. They have proved themselves an important means toward physical and moral health in the individual and civic welfare in the nation. The willingness of young men to devote a month to this training program for better citizenship is proof of good-will in the generation on which will presently devolve the maintenance of our social and political institutions.

I commend the Citizens' camps to all fathers and mothers and to young men of suitable age in the hope and belief that the camps will show themselves as useful in the future as they have been in the past.

Sincerely yours,

HERBERT HOOVER.

National Defense act was passed by congress and in that same year the Military Training Camps Association of America, an organization made up of men who had themselves enrolled in prewar camps in the four years from 1913 to 1916, appealed to the War department for the establishment of camps for the voluntary training of young men, authorized under the National Defense act. The secretary of war, the late John W. Weeks, approved the request and an appropriate item was included in the budget for the next fiscal year. When the proposal was presented to congress by the military affairs committee it was heartily supported by James W. Wadsworth, chairman of the senate committee, and by the late Julius Kahn, chairman of the house committee, both of whom remained ardent friends of the camps during succeeding years.

The first appropriation was sufficient for the training of 10,000 young men at ten different centers throughout the country. The minimum age of admission was fixed at sixteen years and plans were made for a series of three courses—the Red, the White and Blue, giving one month's training in successive years. Later the minimum age was placed at seventeen and a preliminary course, the Basic, was added. Congress made the graduates of the last, the Blue course, eligible for examination leading to a commission in the organized reserves.

Instruction at the camps is divided into four courses, the Basic, Red, White, and Blue, corresponding to the four summers which a candidate may attend. In the first, or Basic, course, youths with no prior training are guided through elementary drills and given the maximum of all-round development exercises. As the courses advance opportunity is afforded for more technical instruction, though participation in athletics and hikes is required at all times.

According to an announcement in a recent issue of the United States Army Recruiting News, the 40,000 young Americans who will attend the "health and citizenship clinics" this year are distributed as follows:

Bird Sanctuaries Dot

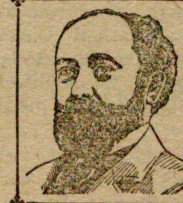

Coast of New Zealand

Several islands along the coast of New Zealand have been set aside as sanctuaries for the native birds which are becoming scarce on the mainland.

One of these is Little Barrier Island, a steep, wooded islet about 50 miles from Auckland. Ships of all kinds pass within a few miles of it on their way to and from Auckland, but no one is allowed to land without permission of the government, and except for the caretaker, who keeps watch for possible marauders, there are no human beings on the island.

Near Wellington is Kapiti Island, big and hilly, once the stronghold of Maori chiefs; it is now the equally well-defended citadel of the native birds.

You don't want people to be unconventional unless you like them.

What this Doctor did for Humanity

As a young man the late Dr. R. V. Pierce, practiced medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and near for his great success in alleviating disease. Finally he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and put in ready-to-use form, his GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY, the well known tonic for the blood. This strength builder is made from a formula which Dr. Pierce found most effective when in private practice.

It aids digestion, acts as a tonic and enriches the blood—clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. All druggists. Tablets or liquid.

AS FIRST AID

Use Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh

All dealers are authorized to refund your money for the first bottle if not suited.

All but 5 per cent of the land area of the territory of Alaska belongs to the United States government.

Would you like to try this doctor's laxative free of charge?

Every family has occasional need of a laxative, but it should be a family laxative. One that can't form a habit, but can be taken as often as needed. When breath is bad or tongue coated. Or appetite fails. Only a doctor knows the right ingredients. Dr. Caldwell discovered the correct combination years ago. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin combines harmless herbs and pure senna. It starts muscular action and soon corrects constipation. Gently, but surely, it relieves a bilious or sluggish condition. It is mild. Delicious. Effective. All druggists keep this famous prescription ready, in big bottles. Or write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle postpaid.

Students of Magnetism

The magnetic properties of certain substances were known to the early Greeks. The earliest systematic investigations of magnets were made by Peter Peregrinus of Maricourt, a student of Roger Bacon, and in August, 1269, he wrote a letter which was the first treatise on magnetism. It was not until 1581 that Robert Norman gives a clear statement of the fundamental laws of attraction.

I heard about the Vegetable Compound through a pamphlet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh."—Minnie E. Hicks.

TRUE TALES OF
THE TELEPHONE

Mechanical Martyrs

Machines, as well as men, sometimes sacrifice their lives for the good of the telephone service. These are the pieces of equipment subjected to "accelerated life tests" at the Bell Telephone Laboratories. By means of specially designed apparatus, they are given, in a short time, treatment closely simulating that of a long period of hard use in actual service.

Transmitters are connected with phonographs that talk into them continuously; receivers are raised and dropped, over and over again, into their hooks; telephone cords are twisted and stretched thousands of times; felt pads on the bottoms of telephone instruments are rubbed back and forth, as if on the top of a desk, until they disintegrate.

The number of operations before the failure of the item being tested is carefully recorded and thus there is obtained, in a few weeks or months, the concentrated experience of years of use in commercial service. These pieces of equipment live short lives, but die gloriously. They are martyrs to the cause of making a nation-wide service more and more dependable.

Rished Her Own Life
To Give Fire Warning

Miss Juanita Costenborder

THE patients in the University of California Hospital were carried to safety in record time and a catastrophe averted, in the midst of a recent fire, discovered by Miss Juanita Costenborder, the hospital telephone operator, when on night duty at the institution.

At her post on the third floor of the hospital, Miss Costenborder heard the crackle of flames. Running into the corridor she discovered the walls ablaze and the halls filled with smoke. Returning immediately to her switchboard she plugged in a general alarm and called individually the night clerk, the engine-room, and the head nurses on the several floors and wards.

By this time the room was unbearably hot. Seeking to escape by the doorway, she found her path blocked by flames. She then tore a screen from the window and dropped thirty feet to the hillside below, escaping with a sprained ankle. The newspapers were warm in their praise of Miss Costenborder's courageous action and swift work in spreading the alarm.

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania owns and operates 1546 motor vehicles including about 500 trucks.

IMMANUEL LUTH. CHURCH

Rev. Paul Schauer, Minister German services will be conducted in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran church Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock, with Rev. Paul E. Schauer in charge. Sunday school will meet at 9 o'clock.

Thursday evening, May 29 at 7:45 p. m., there will be an English Ascension Day service in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran church. The Christian Church celebrates Christ's Ascension. Christ returned on the fortieth day after His Resurrection to the Father. Christ did not come into this world to establish a temporal kingdom, and therefore He did not remain on earth. Now Christ is sitting at the right hand of God, but this does not mean that He is confined to any certain locality. God hath put all things under His feet and given Him to be the Head over all things to the Church, which is His body. His ascension assures all believers that they too shall ascend to heaven, for Christ says: "Where I am, there shall My servant be."

our church for this month. We make our regular offerings to the missionary program of the church in the Church School the first of every month. However, there may be those who would like to take part in this extra giving and any such gifts will be received at the services next Sunday.

The Church School attendance has been keeping above the fifty mark, but we believe with a little effort it could be kept near the sixty or over mark where it has been all year. Let's see if we can't pull the attendance up next Sunday. Those who are working for perfect records will certainly be there.

Keep the Sunday evening worship in mind. Mrs. P. H. Lorenzen who has been ill in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herman Schweser is slowly improving.

Are You Still
"Roughing It" at Home?

Mosquitoes and rain and makeshift living conditions are all part of the fun of camping out. But at home you expect comforts and conveniences. You don't much care for ants with the sugar and beds without springs.

Nevertheless many families have no more convenient source of hot water in their homes than they have when they're out "roughing it." In fact or effect, they have to heat their water in a kettle as they need it, and if they don't really need it they do without. Which is too bad when automatic hot water service can be installed so easily and economically.

Only $5 Down

A self-acting Pittsburg or Lovekin Water Heater is only $5 down and the balance can be spread over a convenient period of time. These gas-fired heaters keep a tankful of water piping hot at all times ready to be drawn off for the many jobs, big and little, that require it during the day. Ask about these heaters at your Public Service Store.

In Memoriam

In memory of Eleanor Funk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Funk, who passed away four years ago, May 18th.

We cannot say and we will not say That she is dead; she is just away! With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand She has wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming, how very fair It needs must be, since she lingers there, And we—oh we, who the wildest yearn, For the old-time step and the glad return.

Think of her faring on, as dear In the love of There, as the love of Here, Think of her still as the same, I say, She is not dead—she is just away.

FATHER, MOTHER, SISTERS BROTHER

All set for the German band who are to play at a dance on Saturday night of this week at the Saenger hall. John Mager and Herbert Teske are sponsoring the dance.

TEST OF CONOCO'S GERM-PROCESSED TENACIOUS FILM . . .

... Compared with Popular Oils at Pike's Peak . . . Reveals 76.4% Less Motor Wear! . . .

We sincerely believe that this disclosure alone will cause you to begin using CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil . . . such decided reduction in motor wear . . . such triumph over the savage attack of friction and heat . . . such positive supremacy over the oil you have been using, all have a definite appeal to your pocketbook and judgment.

Charts prepared from the Pike's Peak Test records indicate a longer life for your motor by lubricating it with Germ-Processed oil. Too, you will save substantially on your gasoline cost, and in oil expense, by using this oil. And the fact that Germ-Processed oil penetrates metal surfaces means, that after starting your car on a cold morning you can safely drive at top speed with less likelihood of damage . . . for CONOCO'S film is already on the job.

Less Carbon—Less Cost—More Mileage and Less Heating—More Compression. All these things mean a better all-around motor. It is truly unusual for a motor oil to so excel competition as CONOCO did in the Pike's Peak Tests. Tested out on the Pike's Peak Highway, scene of many famous automobile tests, was a memorable struggle for supremacy. . . . On the one side, three of America's representative and popular oils—on the other, Germ-Processed oil. And CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil won, by all tests applied.

Only CONOCO can make Germ-Processed oils. CONOCO can give you these new motor oil merits, including penetrative lubricity. We hope to serve you soon, at stations displaying the Red Triangle.

STORY FROM THE START

Capt. Lion Fellowes' American merchant ship was sunk by a British frigate off Portugal in the War of 1812. The crew surrendered, but Fellowes reached shore exhausted. His life is saved by an English-speaking girl, who conceals her identity. She is about to set out for Lisbon. Fellowes goes to Lisbon where he meets an acquaintance, Capt. Chater of the American ship True Bounty, who offers him a berth as a mate, but knowing Chater is disloyal in trading with the enemy, he refuses. He meets the girl who saved his life, Cara Ingelien, daughter of the owner of True Bounty. She is bound for home and induces Fellowes to sail as mate. He is in love with Cara. The vessel is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Captain Collishawe. Despite his claims to American citizenship, Fellowes is taken aboard the Badger as a "pressed" man. Maddened at what he believes is Cara's betrayal, he strikes Collishawe, who orders him a hundred lashes with the "cat." Fellowes' hatred of the three becomes an obsession. Off New York Fellowes escapes from the Badger. He seizes a plot in a meeting to be held at Chater's home and gathers a company of militia to circumvent the plotters.

Feet shuffled in the dust, and Fellowes found himself, with Cuffee and Tom and Nimrod Sopher, leading the Fencibles west on the South Country road. From the rear of the little column echoed the monotonous incantation of Sergeant Peirt: "Hayfoot, strawfoot! Hayfoot, strawfoot! Hayfoot, strawfoot! Hayfoot—"

The ancient's reiterated refrain died away in the chatter of the tree-tops. There was only the "shuffle-shuffle, slap-slap" of feet in the dust, the rustling of equipment, the tense breathing of men laboring under excitement held in leash. It must be very late, Fellowes reflected, well along toward dawn; but the mist, low-lying over the swampy lands bordering the bay, thickened the darkness. Collishawe should be on the point of departure—the Englishman was no fool; in any case, would wish to keep his landing secret.

They tramped around a curve in the road, and Cuffee, at Fellowes' elbow, stiffened with a jerk.

"What dat?" he whispered.

Simultaneously, came a hail from the shadows in front:

"Ahoy, there! Lay to!"

And a bosun's whistle trilled, sharp and clear.

"Back yer oars, Clinch," roared Tom Grogan.

Pistols exploded among the trees; the whistle trilled again, sharper, more piercing.

"Out cutlasses," bellowed Clinch. "Stand by to receive boarders."

Behind them Fellowes heard Peirt, quaveringly authoritative:

Form column—by fours—left into line—forward! Shift—firelocks! Present—firelocks! Aim—fire!

The crashing detonation of thirty stout of arms dismayed the sailors, notwithstanding the militiamen's bullets flew in every direction save the enemy's. Fellowes detected their flight by the crackling of tree branches and Clinch's fervid oaths, and summoned the Fencibles to pursue.

"After them, boys! Give 'em the cold steel!"

Tom was off already, Mrs. Rhodes' ax brandished at the length of his apelike arm, howling challenges to Clinch. Cuffee leaped into the woods, screaming a weird slogan learned in the jungles of Coromandel. Sopher continued to emit twittering calls that ran the gamut from falsetto to bass, trotting next to Fellowes. The Fencibles followed stoutly.

The pursuit receded from the road, traversing a belt of trees which hid the antagonists from each other, bewildering both sides, and presently spilled out of the grove on to a range of cultivated fields. The light was growing, Fellowes perceived. In the distance, Chater's house was a white blur against a windbreak of tufted elms. Clinch launched a vigorous cutlass charge as soon as the increased visibility revealed the scanty numbers and character of the attackers.

"Come on, Badgers," the bosun encouraged his men. "Carry it to 'em, lads! Slice the lights out o' 'em! They're only milshy!"

The sailors responded gallantly, coming forward in a compact group, sure-footed and agile; and the militiamen, caught off-balance, out of breath, most of them with their guns empty, were disposed to run, despite Sergeant Peirt's angry appeals. Sopher, vocal at last, stood stockstill, wheezing his saber and crying shrilly: "Follow your captain, men! Follow your captain!" It was Fellowes, with Tom and Cuffee, supported by Peirt, who checked the impact of the sailors, and gave the Fencibles an opportunity to rally. He flung his empty pistol into the charging group, snatched a clubbed rifle from one of the faltering militiamen, and attacked Clinch, himself—who recognized the Long Islander with a yell of incredulity.

"Sink me, lad! 'Ow'd ye git 'ere?" "Surrender, Bob! You're cornered." "Not me! Bob Clinch don't strike 'is colors—"

But in the midst of his defiance the knot of sailors disintegrated, as Cuffee smashed the head of one and Tom heaved a second from shoulder to waist. The Fencibles, who had been on the verge of flight, were intoxicated with ferocity by their first sight of blood, and eagerly resumed the pursuit.

"Surrender, Bob," Fellowes urged again.

"Not if I knows it," retorted the bosun, dodging a blow with a clubbed rifle. He parried another swing, then stooped and grabbed a fold of Fellowes' shirt, jerking it over the Long Islander's head. Blinded and hampered, Fellowes stumbled to his knees, and by the time he had ripped off the tattered garment and scrambled up, half-naked, Clinch was safely out of reach.

The sailors recovered rapidly from their panic, and made for the creek bank, halting at intervals to fire their pistols and gain a breathing spell. Daylight, Fellowes realized, would increase the timidity of his raw men, and he called anxiously to Sopher:

"We must finish this while we have the darkness for cover. One more charge! Fire a volley, and drive them into the creek."

"Him lil bitty man, but plenty brave," He murmured.

Peirt cried valiantly: "That's the way we took 'em at Saratog! Keep a-chargin'! The British'll run fast as any fellers if they see bay'nits to thar gizzards. Hearts up, now, boys! With powder 'n' ball—load! Present—firelocks! Aim—fire!"

The greasy powder smoke billowed across the field, and the Fencibles trotted with it, making no pretense at order, unable for the moment to see what the enemy was doing, and therefore persuaded they were beaten. Fellowes, in advance of the line and not yet blanketed by the smoke, saw the sailors fall prostrate as the American's muzzles jetted flame. Then Clinch's whistle piped distinct in the racket of musketry and haphazard cheering, a cannon boomed on the creek, and a host of sinister voices whined through the dank air. Grape-shot! Fellowes knew what that meant: the longboat's three-pounder had been brought to bear on them. And he knew, too, by their frightened yells, that the Fencibles were in headlong retreat.

"Peirt," he shouted. "Sergeant! Can't you hold your men? Sopher! Nimrod!"

But his only answer came from Tom Grogan, who bobbed up out of the smoke beside him.

"The old feller took a whif o' grape 'twixt wind-and-water, messmate," Tom reported. "And that air milshy cap'n's off on 'tother tack under full sail, along o' the rest o' his squadron."

"Where's Cuffee?"

The negro towered erect at mention of his name.

"Cuffee wid yo', mars'r," he answered simply.

"Three of us left," groaned Fellowes. "But we can't fall like this. We must take Collishawe."

They stepped out of the smoke onto the creek bank as the longboat was backing into midstream. The gun in her bows no longer aimed their way, but several sailors discharged pistols at them. Collishawe, in the stern-sheets, bending over a wounded man, straightened at a word from Clinch, who held the tiller.

Fellowes waded waist-deep into the creek.

"Collishawe," he shouted. "D'you hear me, Collishawe?"

The Badger's captain rose slowly to his feet, motioning to several of his crew to put aside their pistols.

"I hear you," he answered clearly.

"This is Fellowes—Lion Fellowes, whom you flogged. Will you come ashore, and fight me, man to man?"

"How did you come here, Fellowes?"

"Never mind how I came here," Fellowes waded further out, the bottom mud clutching at his feet. "Will you come ashore, and fight me, man to man? Choose your weapons, choose mine. You and all your men shall go off, unharmed, whatever happens to me."

"That is impossible," the Englishman replied deliberately. "I am an officer on duty. I cannot indulge in personal quarrels."

Gripped as he was by a rage that was volcanic in its force, Fellowes never for a second doubted the honesty of his enemy's position. Say what he might of Collishawe, he would believe the Englishman courageous—morally courageous, as well as physically. He choked down his wrath, and as Collishawe remained standing, with an effect of courtesy allowing him the last word, he called again:

"Very well, I'll come to you."

Collishawe bowed.

"I shall be ready, Fellowes."

He resumed his seat, the longboat's oars feathered and dipped, and she pulled away for the mouth of the creek, as the first pink of the sunrise stained the east. Fellowes waded ashore, less disgruntled than he had been. For Collishawe's parting words had recognized their equality. They were no longer captain and common sailor, superior and infinitely inferior; but two enemies, who should encounter on a level plain of enmity, honorable, however bitter the hatred which knifed their interests as closely as though they had been abiding friends. And somehow, hatred tasted cleaner in Fellowes' mouth—much, much cleaner than the hatred he held for the three who remained in the farmhouse beyond the creek fields.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Hiram L. Williamson
Illinois Press Association

One of the most enthusiastic members to attend the thirty-first annual convention of the Illinois State Historical society in Springfield was Mrs. Eleanor Gridley, now eighty-four years of age, famous as the author of "From the Log Cabin to the White House."

In 1888 Mrs. Gridley accepted the secretaryship of the Abraham Lincoln Log Cabin association, of which she is now president, and during June and July of 1891 she lived in the cabin built by Abraham Lincoln and his father in 1831 in Coles county near Charleston, Ill. Here she gathered a great deal of Lincoln lore, which was invaluable to her in her work as a writer and lecturer on the life of Lincoln. This was the cabin which mysteriously disappeared after it had been removed to Chicago for the Columbian exposition. The state has recently decided to convert the site with approximately 125 acres into a state park, and members of the Abraham Lincoln Log Cabin association are planning to build a replica of this cabin on the original site.

William W. Edwards, seventy-seven, founder and dean of Lincoln College of Law, Springfield, died in a Springfield hospital, following a lingering illness.

The Illinois State Historical society at its thirty-first annual convention recently held in the Centennial building at Springfield, elected the following officers:

Directors, Charles H. Rammelkamp and Andrew Russell, Jacksonville; J. A. Adams and H. J. Patten, Evanston; Laurence M. Larson and Theodore Calvin Pease, Urbana; Logan Hay, Miss Georgia L. Osborne, Thomas Rees and Cornelius J. Doyle, Springfield; George C. Dixon, Dixon; Lincoln Weldon, Bloomington; Joseph B. Oakleaf, Moline, and Frederic Siedenbark, Chicago.

Secretary-treasurer, Miss Osborne; honorary vice presidents, the presidents of local historical societies in Illinois.

It was voted by the state society to take part in the sesquicentennial celebration at Rock Island, September 14-20, commemorating the burning of Sac and Fox Indian villages in 1789, by Col. John Montgomery, who was sent on an expedition against the Indians by Gen. George Rogers Clark.

Two weeks ago there appeared in State Capitol News a notice that phantasm eggs for setting purposes were to be had for writing to John Haberkorn, superintendent of game farms for the state of Illinois, Princeton, who had 60,000 eggs for free distribution to the people of Illinois. This announcement met with a response that so far exceeded Mr. Haberkorn's expectations that he appealed to the writer to stop the requests. Said Mr. Haberkorn, "If we were to fill all of these requests, we could furnish only one egg apiece." Mr. Haberkorn states that requests will be filled in the order received, and asks that no more requests be made as the supply is exhausted and many persons will of necessity be disappointed.

Thomas Arkie Clark, since 1909 dean of men at the University of Illinois, on May 11 passed his sixty-eighth birthday, which is the retiring age of the university. Both faculty members and students are joining in strong efforts to have Dean Clark continue for at least another year and action in this direction may be taken at the next meeting of the board of trustees. There are certain conditions under which a faculty member may remain active after reaching the age limit.

Christian county farmers, local seed dealers and students of vocational agriculture in the Taylorville high school broke into the movies when the state of Illinois filmed a seed inspection demonstration at the Christian county farm bureau at Taylorville, recently. Phil S. Haner, superintendent of plant industry in the state department of agriculture, who is in charge of the preparation of this educational film for the state's library of instructive motion pictures stated that it will appear as one of a series of films in course of preparation for the educational exhibits that the state presents at county fairs and other agricultural gatherings.

Chicago leads the United States in number of professional colleges, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Included in the list are 29 medical schools, nine law schools, three dental schools and seven prominent theological schools. Among its secondary schools Chicago boasts 25 private preparatory institutions for girls and 14 for boys. The combined enrollment at Northwestern, Chicago, Loyola and DePaul universities and Armour and Lewis institutes, the city's two best known technical schools, is placed at 47,000.

Modernization of institutional garb was ordered after an inspection of the shoe factory at Joliet penitentiary by Director Rodney H. Brandon of the state department of public welfare and Col. Frank D. Whipp, superintendent of prisons. Besides improving the clothes of the wards while they remain in the institutions better suits will be given to convicts when they are released so clothes will not stamp them as being just out of prison.

Records on file in the division of plant industry show that clean-up operations are now under way or contemplated in 35 Illinois orchards, which a recent survey conducted by Superintendent Phil S. Haner at the request of Stuart E. Pierson, director of the department of agriculture, revealed as harboring insect pests and plant diseases sufficient to endanger fruit production on adjacent property. The survey discovered a total of 50 such orchards.

Eighteen Illinois-bred hens, along with 33 from other states, recorded perfect scores in April egg production tests at the three poultry experimental farms operated by the Illinois department of agriculture at Quincy, Kankakee and Murphysboro, according to the report the state's chief poultryman, E. G. Horner, filed with Director Stuart E. Pierson of the state department of agriculture. Of the 175 birds that made the "all-star" flock, 102 were white leghorns and the others of the American, English and Asiatic classes. The light and heavy breeds both averaged slightly over 92 per cent production.

While Illinois' 1930 road building program is just beginning to gather speed there are 1,560 men already directly employed in road work, Chief Highway Engineer Frank T. Sheets has announced. During the entire construction year, it is estimated, the state's road building activities will furnish direct and indirect employment to more than 30,000 men.

More than 650 children of school age died in Illinois last year of tuberculosis; more than 600 of diphtheria, and both diseases are almost wholly preventable if we develop an "intelligent parenthood," according to Dr. Grace S. Wightman, chief of the division of child hygiene, department of public health, Springfield. Doctor Wightman made this statement as she explained her plans for an educational display at the Well Equipped Home exposition held at the state arsenal, Springfield, in connection with the convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Urging that the question of reapportionment be postponed until the next regular session of the legislature when results of the 1930 federal census will be available, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, in his message to the general assembly convened in extraordinary session, said that the present situation in Cook county finances "is but a symptom of the shortcomings and inefficiency of our entire revenue system."

"If we are to get at the seat of the trouble and prevent the recurrence of such conditions," continues the governor's message, "we must begin at the foundation and prepare for the reconstruction of our revenue laws with a view to a more satisfactory distribution of the tax burden in the light of present-day conditions. To accomplish this it is necessary to amend the revenue article of the state constitution."

Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington delivered an address, "John McLean and the County That Bears His Name," before the thirty-first annual convention of the Illinois State Historical society recently held in the Centennial building, Springfield.

The annual conference of the American Library association will be held at Los Angeles, June 23-28. Miss Anna May Price will represent the Illinois extension division, Springfield, and will bring back the newest library ideas that may be utilized in Illinois.

The proper object of an institution of the penal and charitable type is its own extinction, A. L. Bowen, superintendent of charities for Illinois, declared in a recent interview. "Its only justifiable ideal," Mr. Bowen stated, "should be its own elimination by correcting or removing the conditions which brought it into being."

"The institution of the future," Superintendent Bowen prophesied, "will be a community, keyed up only to the capacity of its members. In this community, where less is expected, less is required, and competition is less keen, each man and woman will find his niche and become useful to others and satisfied with himself."

More county fairs are in prospect for Illinois this season than were held during 1929 and the state fund for their support is $32,503.42 less than the amount distributed last year. This situation, according to Director Stuart E. Pierson of the state department of agriculture, who administers the state appropriation for the aid of county fairs, strongly indicates that the amount available, $243,748.29, will not be sufficient to reimburse the fairs in accordance with the percentage basis that the law provides. In the event that the funds available will not permit reimbursement on this basis, the law provides that the sum shall be prorated among all the fairs entitled thereto.

"Air Cathedral" Flyers' Tribute

In memory of its brothers of the air who have "gone West," and in tribute to those who still carry on, the American Legion, Department of New Jersey, is to build a chapel which will be also a sanctuary for all men, and an eternal reminder of the spiritual verities.

"It is tremendously significant," says the announcement, "that the Legion, when seeking best to express its devotion and idealism, should decide to construct a memorial that has a primary religious and moral value. It is to be a house of prayer for all people." The "Cathedral of the Air," as it is described, is also, we read in the New York Christian Advocate (Methodist), a practical demonstration of interchurch co-operation and fellowship, as its charter provides that it shall be non-denominational. All denominations are co-operating in the project, and all may use it. The interior arrangements and chancel furnishings have been so designed as to be adaptable for the worship of all religious groups, giving offense to none, and permitting each to use the appointments to which it is accustomed. A navy chaplain will act as dean.

The chapel is to be located at the United States Naval Air station at Lakehurst; it will stand not far from the hangar of the U. S. S. Los Angeles, the navy's great experimental dirigible, which by the terms of the Treaty of Versailles may never be used for any purpose of war. The idea of the memorial originated in the minds of three prominent members of the American Legion in New Jersey, and the Advocate informs us further:

"Its chief sponsor has been the Hon. Herbert H. Blizzard of Audubon, commander of the New Jersey department of the American Legion during 1929. Mr. Blizzard is now president of the board of trustees, upon whom the American Legion has placed the responsibility for the successful completion of the project. Rev. Gill Robb Wilson of Trenton, formerly national chaplain, has had a large part in the organization of the plan. As an aviator he received the Croix de Guerre with Palmes from the French government. He is at present the influential pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church in Trenton. The third of the group who developed the plans is Commander William W. Edel (Chaplain Corps), United States navy, chaplain of the United States air station at Lakehurst.

"The American Legion espoused the plan early in 1929. The enabling act permitting the United States government to accept such a memorial chapel and to care for it in perpetuity was passed by both houses of congress without a dissenting vote. It was one of the last bills to which President Coolidge affixed his official signature."

A French soldier who served through the war, now an American citizen—Paul Phillippe Cret—is the architect, and it is from his native France, we read, that he has drawn his inspiration for the sacred memorial. A word as to the design:

"The structure itself is a modified Gothic in design, to correspond in general appearance with the great cathedrals of the section of France in which the American troops fought during the last months of the World war. Before the chapel will spread out a great forecourt, 112 by 60 feet, flagged with fieldstone, and enclosed on three sides by a colonnaded wall, in which will be set scores of memorials, commemorating the lives of those who have carried on the conquest of the Last Frontier, the Frontier of the Air. A speakers' stand is placed in this forecourt.

"Rising out of the rear of the forecourt, and dominating it, will stand the Carillon tower, flanked by the nave and transepts. In the nave will be memorial windows for heroes of aviation, and on the walls of the nave will be scores of memorial tablets and inscriptions. A small side chapel will be named the Shenandoah Memorial chapel, and will be in honor of the officers and men who were killed in the wreck of the U. S. S. Shenandoah, over Ava, Ohio, in 1925. With the development of aviation and the sacrifices that must inevitably be made during its progress, it is expected that the chapel at Lakehurst will in time become not only a cathedral of aviation, but an American Westminster abbey of the Air. The floor plan of the chapel will trace upon the great flying field among the Jersey pines, for all the argosies of the air to see, the symbol of the Prince of Peace, the shadow of the cross."

ENDURING MEMORIAL

Hewn out of the solid rock, this odd memorial at Nice, France, honors local men who fell in the World war. The sketch was made at its dedication by the late Marshal Foch.

Famous "Grand Review"

What is known as the Grand Review was held in Washington, D. C., May 23 and 24, 1865. The whole number of officers and enlisted men in and about Washington at that time was 152,445, according to the most accurate returns. The number actually participating in the parade was doubtless somewhat less than that number, as many were probably left in charge of camps and guarding property and equipment.

CHIC GLOVES ARE IMPORTANT; OUTFITTING OF LITTLE GIRLS

HUSBANDS and fathers please take notice, from now on the dress allowance for wives and daughters must be increased. Henceforth and until further notice the budget must be made to cover the expense of gloves ranging from the most formal types to every conceivable kind such as time place and costume may demand.

At every Paris couture opening, the glove is being made a theme of out-illustration herewith carries the point with emphasis.

The graceful drooping leghorn which this little girl is wearing is trimmed with a broad velvet ribbon matched to the rose color print of the frock. Which is as it should be, for even in the little folks' realm, the costume must present a related color scheme from head to foot to be fashionable. In this instance the winsome standing importance. Perfectly fascinating long gloves in pastel tints are registering for formal evening wear. A preferred type is the 16-button mousquetaire suede glove in such baby colors as pink, pale blue and light yellow. Worn with the right evening gown, they create nothing less than a sensation.

Long white glace kid gloves are in demand but the eggshell and suede tints are newer. Very handsome and exclusive types finish their top edges with borders of rhinestone or bead embroidery. Offsetting these fanciful creations are the very long black suede gloves, the same considered treble worn with colorful evening gowns.

Quaintest of all are the very long and not so long black lace mitts which are complementing the gown made all of lace, also smartly in evidence with demure frocks which are sleeved with cunning short puffs.

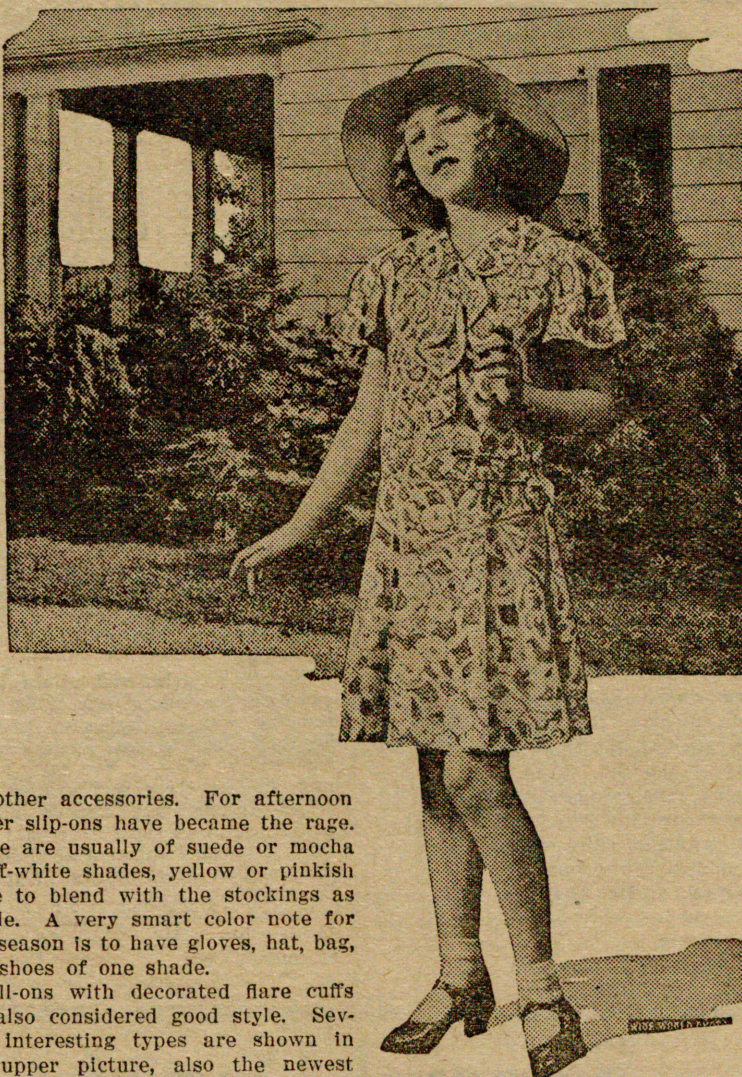

In selecting gloves one needs to consider the style, the color and even the leather in relation to the costume and dress is made of shantung printed in a delicate patterning which silhouettes blue and rose against a white background.

Designers, manufacturers, also the family dressmaker and home-sewing women in general are rejoicing in the wealth of lovely materials which this season are at their disposal for the making of little folks' apparel. They cite particularly the prettiness and at the same time practicability of printed shantungs and printed linens which flourish in the fabric showings, likewise the wearableness and attractiveness of printed crepe.

In making up youngsters' fashions the very style points which are contributing so conspicuously to the smartness of adult fashions are being exploited in the children's realm with utmost enthusiasm. For instance, the little dress in the picture is styled with the popular cape sleeves, the circular-flare hemline, and a most sophisticated jabot made of self-material.

Another mode which appears in replica of the costumes designed for mother and grown-up sister is the jacket suit, made of lively print silk. Most cunning models in miniature are laying siege to little daughter's heart. Outstanding among these is the jacket-and-skirt suit of printed crepe, as the other accessories. For afternoon longer slip-ons have become the rage. These are usually of suede or mocha in off-white shades, yellow or pinkish beige to blend with the stockings as a rule. A very smart color note for this season is to have gloves, hat, bag, and shoes of one shade.

Pull-ons with decorated flare cuffs are also considered good style. Several interesting types are shown in the upper picture, also the newest lace mitts.

With her handsome gown of white benberg moire, the evening-attired lady as illustrated is wearing an exquisite pair of long pale blue glace kid gloves. Rhinestone buckles and a bow on one shoulder and at the belt provide the only trimming for her modishly fitted-at-the-waist frock.

Attire for Small Girls.

The call of the wide-brimmed hat is heard in the children's realm. From juvenile headquarters comes the welcome news that lovely big leghorns, than which there is no more flattering type for youngsters, has come into its own once more.

A gay print frock topped with a ribbon sashed or banded leghorn worn by a dainty little miss never fails to make a "perfect picture," and the il-well as those of shantung or linen. For every day wear polka dotted effects are perhaps in the majority. For tots the pleated skirt buttons on to blouse, while older girls may if they so desire find cleverly devised yoke shirts which fit over frilly tuck-ins of dotted swiss, handkerchief linen; also cotton net, which is so very popular this season for frocks and the blouse.

Very charming printed silks, which are designed for the very young, are patterned in quaint Dresden effects, depicting children at play. Suits of monotone pastel spun silks or of flat crepe in a solid color are also voguish for little daughter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being Ready.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Preparedness.

1. The Prophetic View of the Course of Time from Christ's Crucifixion to His Second Coming. (24:1-51).

The order of events in this time are in general as follows:

1. The moral condition of the world during Christ's absence. (vv. 1-14).

This is the period covered by the parables of chapter 13.

2. The appearance of the Antichrist (vv. 15-26).

3. The great advent (vv. 27-31).

In connection with this advent there will be mighty convulsions of nature, the mourning of the tribes of the earth, and the gathering of the elect.

4. Warnings to God's people in view of the great advent (vv. 32-51).

The time of this advent is unknown and on the part of many unexpected.

5. Instruction to believers in view of the unexpectedness of Christ's coming (25:1-30).

II. Behavior of Believers in View of the Coming of the Lord (25:1-13).

The teaching in the parable of the ten virgins has continuous application in the present time (1 Thess. 16:13; Titus 2:11-13).

1. The equipment of the virgins (vv. 1-5).

(1) The foolish virgins took lamps, but no oil with them (v. 3). Lamps signify Christian profession (Matt. 5:16) and oil the Holy Spirit (Zech. 14). Having lamps but no oil shows that they were professors of religion, without possessing its reality. The Christian life is sustained by the Holy Spirit. As soon as a man is regenerated, the Holy Spirit takes up His abode with him. The Spirit's indwelling therefore, is an advance work upon regeneration. The proof that one is a child of God is that he has the Holy Spirit dwelling within him. (Rom. 8:9). The foolish virgins were professors, but not possessors.

(2) The wise virgins possessed both lamps and oil (v. 4). They backed their profession with a real life of righteousness. Both the wise and the foolish virgins slumbered and slept. This shows that as the present age lengthens, the real and the professing church will cease looking for the coming of the Lord. It is unspeakably sad that so many, even of God's chosen—the wise virgins—should give up the expectancy of the return of the Lord.

2. The coming of the bridegroom (vv. 6-12).

(1) The midnight cry (v. 6). In the midst of the night when all the virgins were asleep the cry was heard, "Behold the bridegroom cometh." Who knows but that the time of this cry is now close upon us? (2) Activity of the virgins (v. 7). They all arose and trimmed their lamps. There will be great activity when the Lord comes on the part of both believers and those who only make a profession. It will be a day when the reality of one's faith will be tested. (3) The foolish virgins' request of the wise to share their oil (vv. 8, 9). The revelation of Christ will make manifest the genuineness of our faith and expose the folly of mere profession. When the Lord comes, it will be too late to mend one's ways. (4) The wise enter to the marriage (v. 10). While the foolish were seeking to amend their ways—trying to buy oil—the bridegroom came, and those who were ready were admitted to the marriage. (5) The pitiful petition of the foolish virgins (v. 11). They begged the Lord to open the door. (6) The awful judgment (v. 12). The Lord declared, "I know you not."

3. The solemn obligation (v. 13).

"Watch, for ye know not the day nor the hour wherein the Son of man cometh." Two solemn facts should engage the attention of every one.

(1) Entering with Christ to the marriage depends upon faithfulness to the end. If oil and light be wanting when Christ comes, no admittance will be granted to the heavenly banquet. (2) Borrowed religion will not avail at that day. Despite the value of godly companions and associates, they can render no service in the day of Jesus Christ. Personal contact with the Lord Jesus through faith in His blood is the absolute essential.

Those Who Do Not Sleep

While many are sleeping and taking it easy, we, as overseers, are struggling under the burden resting upon us, weeping and warning and begging for help to battle against the forces of evil around us.—Jonas Miulinger.

Thy shoes shall be iron and brass; and as thy days, so shall thy strength be.—Deuteronomy 33:25.

Comment: Bishop William Morris, Episcopal church, used this text in his confirmation sermon. (I was thirteen.) All my life it has been my guide.

Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matthew 11:28.

Comment: Marvelous sympathy and insight into life's problems.

It is impossible but that offences will come: but woe unto him, through whom they come! It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.—Luke 17:1-2.

Comment: The whole of the juvenile court philosophy is here, or should be.

CARE IN COLOR CHOICE FOR HOME

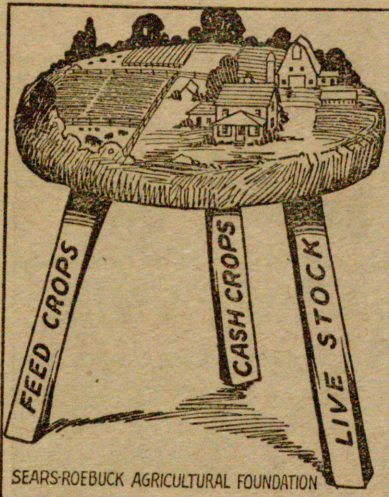

The selection of a color treatment for the exterior of the house should be an agreement between personal preference and the requirements of the particular situation. This does not mean that for any one house there is only one ideal color combination. As a matter of fact there are often several alternative arrangements of color that conform with good taste. There is actually so much to be gained in added pride and satisfaction through careful color selection that the slight extra effort of careful choosing is well worth while. The fundamentals of decoration as applied to the exterior of the house may be classified under three groups. These three are, the size of the house, the type of house and the surroundings. The influence of size is of prime importance. Small houses are made to appear larger if painted with light tints. On the other hand, dark shades make a house appear smaller and there are times when their use on a large house is desirable to bring its apparent size into proportion with the surroundings. In all cases the paint used should be Dutch Boy white-lead and linseed oil. It can easily be tinted with the regulation colors-in-oil to any desired shade or color. The tall narrow house is brought into better proportion when accorded a two-color treatment. In carrying out such a treatment it is well to bear in mind that too great a contrast will look awkward and that the two colors should not contrast too greatly. Certain types of houses such as the Colonial and the English half-timbered have become associated with certain colors, but grays and light greens can be employed on the Colonial and painting the English type in shades such as buff, light tan or warm gray gives a pleasing effect. One-Legged Farming System Won't Stand Up

Thousands of farmers who are now depending upon cash crops could double their income by combining the production of cash crops and feed crops with well-managed live stock states the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Trying to succeed at farming with one crop or product is about as difficult as making a table stand with only one leg.

Growing a variety of feed and cash crops leads to rotation which preserves fertility, helps to control weeds insects and plant diseases, and maintains high crop yields. All the crops produced are not likely to fail or to be lower in price at once. Diversification permits more effective use of man and horse labor and machinery.

Farmers who rely on live stock are more likely to have a proper proportion of their acreage in legumes than those who depend solely on crops for their income. The Foundation adds. Live stock helps to preserve the fertility of the soil, saves labor by harrowing some crops without cost, utilizes waste land and waste crop products, provides more of the family living and gives the farmer profitable occupation during the winter, turning the farm into a factory operating the year round.
